

wants to do. There are many other problems such as alcoholism and smoking which are very typical for teenagers. The number of the young people using drugs increases. Some of them cannot stop, and they become dependent on drugs. They do not understand that it's wrong and harmful for their health. Such people as skinheads or drug addicts appeared because they could not find their place in the life, because their parents did not help them or they did not want to let them do this. Of course a lot of things in the behavior of young people depends on their families. We should not judge our government, society or people because nobody is guilty in this point. These are common problems which appeared as a result of the evolution of our world and society. The young people in other countries have many problems too.

We should not forget that young people play a very important role in our society.
